Eules police offer drop-off box for outdated, unused drugs

EULESS

Getting rid of any unused or expired medications piling up in your medicine cabinet is easy.

The Eules Police Department has a permanent site for dropping off over-the-counter and prescription drugs that are outdated or won't be used.

The city previously had collection days twice a year.

"I found a medication unit that would be available all of the time instead of once or twice a year," Lt. Brandon Zachary said. "The chief felt like it was a good service for our citizens, and we moved forward with it."

Zachary said he is pleased with the community's response so far.

"We were pleasantly surprised that we're getting a consistent amount of medication each week," Zachary said.

The drop-off box is next to the duty officer's desk in the main lobby at the department, 1102 W. Eules Blvd. (also known as Texas 10). People can drop off their medications during regular business hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. A sign shows which medications are accepted and which are not.

The service is available to anyone, not just Eules residents.

Fellow firefighters used those words in their nomination of Van Noy, 25, for Rookie of the Year 2014.

"Ryan has demonstrated his ability to improve and grow as a young member of the Euless Fire Department," one fellow firefighter wrote. "Ryan brings a calm and eager work attitude."

Another firefighter wrote, "Even though he is still very green to the service he seems to pick up on things quick. He seems very eager to learn."

Van Noy was named Rookie of the Year 2014 during the department's annual awards banquet in February.

"It was a very humbling experience," Van Noy said. "It's still a team effort."

Born in California and raised in Oregon, Van Noy, of Carrollton, got a taste of firefighting with wildfires in Oregon. He moved to Texas in 2013 and decided to pursue firefighting.

"As soon as I got here, I started school to become a firefighter," Van Noy said. He became a part-time firefighter in Sachse and was hired by Euless in June 2014.

The last 11 months have been a learning experience for him.

But Assisant Chief Jeff Morris said VanNoy has an "unbelievable passion" for his job.

"He's been one of the happiest recruits I have ever seen," Morris said. "If you could have a recruit role model, it would be VanNoy."

His fellow firefighters have grown to respect the rookie.

In one nomination letter, a fellow firefighter wrote, "Ryan picks up information easily and displays a can-do attitude. He has shown improvement with all that he has learned. He is always a professional to others and is always first in line when there is something needed."

Van Noy didn't expect to win the award, and his dedication to his job was evident the night of the banquet.

"I was on duty the night of the banquet, but I was still allowed to attend," he said. "Just after I got the award, I had to leave because we had a medical call."
